GENERAL NEWS.

CHICAGO VISITED BY A DAMAGING STORM.

The Plea upon which the Star Route Ring Hope to Escape—Senator Sessions Indicted for Bribery, etc., etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

CHICAGO, June 29.—At about [illegible] o'clock last night a terrific wind and rain storm burst over the city which did considerable damage [illegible] blowing down houses, [illegible] trees, etc. Several horses were struck by lightning and killed. At Austin, a suburban town, an Episcopal church, not yet completed, was prostrated to the ground. No loss of life is reported. There is very little communication with the outside world, and the storm appears to have covered a wide extent of country. [illegible] but after the shower it is [illegible] pleasant although rather warm.

Sessions Indicted.

ALBANY, June 29.—[illegible] for bribery has been found against Senator Sessions, who is held in [illegible] bail.

Sessions accompanied by counsel entered the court this afternoon. He said that he understood that he was indicted for bribery and wanted to [illegible]. Through his counsel he pleaded not guilty, reserving the right to alter or withdraw the plea in future, and demand immediate trial. The district attorney demurred on the ground that he was not ready, and had other cases. Besides this was not a case for immediate trial. Judge Van Alstyne remarked something about this being wanted as a record. Smith of Sessions's counsel remarked that the action of the district attorney demanded immediate trial to demonstrate the truth or falsity of the charge. Finally bail was fixed at $2000, Sessions to appear from day to day. It is understood that the case will not be tried this term.

ALBANY, June 29.—Stalwarts and half-breeds had a long, resultless conference this evening. It is said the friends of Conkling sent a proposition to the half breeds that they would accept Depew for the long term if they would accept Conkling for the short term, but the half breeds refused. Robertson and Woodin especially opposed it. The indictment of Senator Sessions is strongly denounced by the half-breeds, who charge that the action of the grand jury results from conspiracy. Senator Sessions' counsel is extremely outspoken and declares that such proceeding as the indictment of an accused person while his case was under investigation by a legislative committee was never known before in this or any other country. They were also severe upon the district attorney, who would not agree to have the trial because he was not prepared with evidence. The counsel laid stress upon the district attorney's hastening indictment and then delaying trial.

A Sensation at Albany.

ALBANY, June 29.—A stir was created to-night on the main floor of the Delavan House, where it is reported an angry conversation took place between Assemblyman Crapser, a half-breed, and Assemblymen Bemis and Phillips, and Senator Winslow, stalwarts. Crapser charged the stalwarts with trying to destroy the republican party by forcing upon it candidates not acceptable to either the party or the people. He inferred that the half-breeds were men possessed of manhood sufficient to not be led about with rings in their noses. The affair created great excitement.

It is reported that Vice-President Arthur said to-night that the only way for the republicans to get out of this difficulty was to concentrate on Conkling and Depew.

The Proposed Defense of the Star Route Ring.

ST. LOUIS, June 29.—Jeff Chandler, a prominent lawyer of this city, has just returned from Washington where he was engaged as one of the counsel for defendant in the cases of the government against Brady and Dorsey of star route notoriety. He gave a Post-Dispatch reporter this afternoon some new points in the case. "In the event that the government is able to procure evidence enough to indict Brady, what will be your line of defense?" was asked. "It is impossible to say until the evidence is produced," he replied. "The question of law lying underneath the case, which I think settles it entirely, is that there can be no element of legal wrong in those contracts which the courts can inquire into after congress has by its special legislation regarding them cured them of all informality. You know that congress appropriated $1,2[illegible] to meet these expedited contracts, and before doing this investigated each one of the contracts, and made the appropriation to carry them out upon the expedited prices. This was in effect to declare by congress that the post office department had acted properly in expediting these routes, and in paying these additional prices." Regarding the methods employed by the government in procuring testimony in the case, Mr. Chandler produced a letter from MacVeagh, dated June [illegible], which says: "I am told that you have some knowledge relative to star route matters which may be of importance to the government, and if so, I will be glad to see or hear from you on the subject." "The logic of this letter," said Mr. Chandler, "is that if the party written to will betray the confidence of the person with whom he has been in intimate business relations he will find it to his advantage to do so."

The Indian Fight.

DENVER, June 29.—The Republican is in receipt of a letter which reduces the magnitude of the Ute Indian fight. The substance of the information is as follows: Not long after the cattle men arrived in the Indian country, Billy May, one of the leaders, concluded that the men were too noisy, and being unable to get them in proper trim, he with six others left the main party. Only thirteen Indians were encountered, and but nine cattle men went into the fight, the remainder apparently seeing the trap the Indians were laying. The nine men pursued the Indians and the latter pushed their fight until they had drawn the pursuers into a canyon where they turned and fired and left. One of the nine was killed and seven wounded. William May and companions, who were reported missing, have reached the big bend of the Dolah in safety. At last accounts the 13 Indians engaged in the fight had crossed the Colorado line and were en route to the Uncompahgre agency with their squaws and cattle. One squaw is reported shot, having received a shot while herding sheep. The Republican adds: "It is important in estimating the dangers caused by the late fight that in none of the reports have miners appeared as taking a hand in the fights. If there had been a fight that was likely to cause a general outbreak it seems that the miners would be sufficiently interested to be among the volunteers."

Pool Sellers Arrested.

CINCINNATI, June 29.—Pools have been sold on recent races in violation of a lately passed law. Arrests were made to-night of guilty parties.

Iowa Republican Convention.

DES MOINES, June 29.—The republican state convention met to-day; [illegible] delegates present; committees appointed; recess.

The Clifford-Drake Suit.

CHICAGO, June 29.—The jury in the case of Archibald Clifford against Wm. H. Drake for making [illegible] statements which prevented plaintiff from getting the San Francisco court house to build, thus preventing him from making, as complaint alleged, a quarter of a million dollars, brought in a verdict of damages of $[illegible] against Drake. Fifty thousand was the amount of damages claimed.

Meeting of the Virginia Republican Committee.

RICHMOND, June 29.—The republican state committee met to-day, pursuant to call of Lewis, chairman. The full committee was present.

Lewis stated that it had been his intention to resign the chairmanship at a meeting which he called for the 21st inst. Circumstances compelled him to postpone the time of that meeting until to-day. He regarded the action of the meeting held on the 21st in deposing him as illegal.

Gen. Wickham, congressmen Jorgensen and Dezendorf and others, who participated in the meeting of the 21st, were present, and made no objection to Lewis presiding.

Clarke offered a resolution requesting both Lewis and Wickham to resign, and providing for the appointment of a committee of conference. Adopted.

The committee reported that they could not agree. By a vote of 14 to 13 the conference adopted a substitute for the committee's report, providing that Wickham and Lewis retire, that some other members be selected and that on August 10, a convention be held in Lynchburg to which no participant in the readjuster convention should be eligible as a delegate. Jorgensen was called to the chair, Lewis retiring. J. W. Cochrane was then elected chairman, 14 to 13. He is a colored man and a straight out.

Steamboat Explosion.

CINCINNATI, June 29.—The steamer Phaeton exploded her boilers a short distance above Maysville, Ky., this afternoon. It is a total wreck. The lost are Cash Naylor, engineer, of Manchester, Ohio; Samuel Reynolds, porter, of Maysville; and Joseph Miller, deck sweep. A passenger, name unknown, is supposed to be lost. Among the injured are D. B. Smith, of Cincinnati; Boscom Cooper, of Manchester; Mr. McArthur, of Chicago; Tim Seevers, fireman—fatally and John Conn, of Marietta. Most of these are slightly injured. The Phaeton was a small side wheel steamer in local trade valued at $[illegible].

WASHINGTON CITY.

Fees of Clerks and Marshals.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—First Comptroller Lawrence gave a decision to-day in which he maintains that the act of February 22, 1875, as to the fees of marshals and clerks does not change the rate or mode of computing on mileage on writs served by marshals, and that it prohibits constructive mileage on writs transmitted and served by deputies, and mileage for travel not necessarily performed. [illegible] witnesses who are [illegible] of the United States, shall [illegible] on behalf of the United States, and under such subpœna they are required to testify before the grand jury, petit jury or [illegible]. Clerks of courts are required by law to insert in one writ the names of all such witnesses who at the time of issuing the warrant are to be subpœnaed [illegible] in one locality or in the same direction from the place where the writ is returnable. Marshals are entitled to but one mileage for such [illegible] witnesses whose names should have been inserted in one writ. The decision authorizes the proper accounting officers of the treasury department to revise the accounts of marshals and clerks of courts of the United States, notwithstanding their approval by the proper court. The statute authorizing such revision Judge Lawrence holds is unconstitutional.

Bonds for Redemption.

The amount of 5 per cent. coupon bonds received for continuance at 3½ per cent. aggregate $82,030,-[illegible].

The Cabinet displeased with French.

The recent letter of French, auditor of railway accounts, to the president of the Central Pacific Railroad Company in consequence of which he [illegible] has been advanced sufficiently in the market to [illegible] the cabinet met this session to-day. The [illegible] was [illegible] that having been sent without a government [illegible] French had no [illegible] and that certain statements did not [illegible].

The president was disposed to take action immediately, but at the suggestion of Secretary Kirkwood, who desired to consult McVeagh respecting the status of suits now pending in New York city federal courts against the Central Pacific Company and French's relation thereto, the subject was deferred. Indications point strongly to the appointment of [illegible], of Wisconsin, as French's successor. It is believed that upon his dismissal from the government service French will enter the employ of the Central Pacific and other railroads as their representative here.

The Storm at Washington.

Twelve hundred and sixty shade trees were blown down by last night's storm, scores of buildings unroofed and damaged, 400 street lamps damaged and all gas [illegible] out.

Ramsey Prepared to Investigate.

Ex-Secretary Ramsey, to whom was assigned the work of examining into the charges preferred against Superintendent Dodge of the San Francisco mint, has received his instructions.

An Important Decision.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The French and American claims commission rendered a decision to-day in the case of Eliza Anthony vs. the United States. The claimant, a colored woman, was born in January, 1803, in territory which was ceded to the United States. The counsel for claimant argued that at the time of the cession claimant was a French subject, and as under the constitution of the United States a colored person could not become a citizen of the United States she remained a citizen of France and as such was entitled to sue the United States before the commission. A claim was filed for $10,000 damages for the loss of property, etc. The court to-day decided that there is nothing in the treaty of the cession to indicate that it was the intention either of France or the United States that the inhabitants or any of them were to remain citizens of France. On the contrary, it was intended that they should be citizens of the United States. The claim is therefore disallowed. The decision in this case will hold in all similar cases where the claimants were colored persons and citizens of France at the time of the cession of Louisiana.

A Mysterious Murder.

LONDON, June 28.—When the Brighton railway express train was stopped for collection of tickets outside Brighton yesterday a man named Arthur Lefroy was found in one of the carriages wounded in the head and bleeding. He reported that his fellow traveler was an old gentleman, that shortly after passing Croydon he heard a shot and was stunned. The police found several bullets imbedded in the carriage and in Balcombe tunnel they found the corpse of T. A. Gold, a retired business man who had been to London to collect dividends, with his throat cut. He was stabbed in several places and only a pocket book containing cards was found on his person. Lefroy, after having his wounds dressed, started for London. Notice has been issued that he will be accused of the murder of Gold. He is a newspaper reporter, aged 22.

LONDON, June 29.—The murder of Gould on the London and Brighton railway excites intense interest. The real name of Lefroy, who is suspected, is Henry Mapleton. He eluded the police and is missing. The murdered man evidently was in the habit of traveling on the train in question. Some articles, such as Hanoverian tokens, were found on the person of Lefroy, and also beside the murdered man, which it is thought will implicate Lefroy.

LONDON, June 29.—The murder on the London and Brighton road, on one of the most frequented lines leading out of the metropolis, excites the keenest interest everywhere. Lefroy told a straight story to the railroad officials, how after leaving Croydon he had heard a shot fired at him with a blow on his head, upon which he became insensible, and only recovered consciousness on reaching Preston park. When he recovered he said he found himself the only occupant of the compartment, with a pool of blood at his feet. He could not tell who fired the shot, but had an impression that it was not the old gentleman who sat opposite to him. Lefroy was taken to a police office at Brighton, where he gave these particulars, and afterward had his wounds dressed at the county hospital, and was permitted to leave for his home.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Practical Slavery of Scandinavians in the Sandwich Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—C. Chlausen, a Swede, who recently arrived here from Honolulu, reports that several hundred Scandinavians who went to the Sandwich Islands under contracts made with Capt. Lorange, are held there in what is practically a state of slavery. They are disposed of by lot among planters, are suffering from climatic influences and held rigidly to terms of the contract on pain of penal servitude, although the other parties to the contract have failed to carry out at least its spirit. His story created a sensation [illegible], and several communications have been sent to Norway and Sweden, warning the people against Hawaiian emigration agents.

Prison Commission.

Lawren E. Crane has been appointed by the governor as expert to examine the accounts of the San Quentin commission. Gibbs, Watts and Mills have been appointed by the governor to investigate the affairs of the prison, and have accepted the trust. They have power to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers. It is understood that special inquiry will be made regarding the project for establishing a jute factory in the prison. The first regular meeting of the committee will be held early next week, probably at San Quentin.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

Abyssinia and the United States, said a speaker at a church conference in Chicago, are the only two christian countries that tolerate polygamy.

Four Presbyterian churches in this country the past year raised $727,517 for foreign missions, and three raised $510,704 for home missions, making a total of $1,238,221.

The British premier, Mr. Gladstone, translated the hymn "Rock of Ages" into Latin, and ignorant of its Protestant origin, some nuns [illegible] next sing it in their convent.

It was said at the recent Congregational convention in Chicago that Connecticut is the very center of congregationalism [illegible] the world, [illegible] state or country can say that [illegible] per cent. of its population is in Congregational churches.

The completed returns of the English Wesleyan church show that it has 380,822 members, a net increase of 1241. Over 31,000 new members were received. Of the net increase, 118 was [illegible] in London. There are seventy-one candidates for the ministry.

The question whether the revised version can be read in the churches of the Established Church of England has been earnestly discussed. The chief [illegible] opinion is that it can. [illegible] Lord Selborne and two legal journals [illegible].

ENGLAND AND IRELAND.

THE AGRICULTURAL LABORERS ORGANIZED UNDER GOOD LEADERS.

The Tory Party Forced into Alliance with Them—Purpose of Parnell's Proposed Visit to America—How he is Embarrassed.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, June 29.—The Herald's London special says: Now that the land bill is safe in the house of commons the [illegible] of land reform in Ireland, the radicals are turning their attention to the agricultural laborers [illegible] which they have set their hearts. As [illegible] comparatively a small job. Tories who opposed Disraeli's reform bill of '67 [illegible] its application to the agricultural laborer, and it will be prudent for tory chiefs to attempt to defeat such measures. The laborers are now bound together in a union and swayed by a central committee, [illegible] and vigorous leaders. It is contended that they are illiterate and therefore unfit to exercise the franchise, they may truly answer that the fault is not theirs, [illegible] of the squires and parsons. As regards education, however, they are not one whit behind tens of thousands of the residents [illegible] was not afraid to entrust with the [illegible]. [illegible] important of the great questions of reform will be [illegible] distribution of seats. Thirty years have elapsed since Lord Russell put his hand to that work and [illegible] boroughs which were then [illegible] schemes, have [illegible] towns and new towns have sprung up which are now wholly unrepresented. [illegible] point of population. On the other hand, many old boroughs [illegible] to decrepitude and decay, and are no longer worthy of representation.

The radicals hope to launch to some extent the large influence wielded in many constituencies by wealthy landowners. [illegible] of lords. [illegible] territorial plutocracy is still in very [illegible] unbroken. Thus North [illegible] in Yorkshire is practically controlled by the earl of Harewood [illegible] earl of [illegible] of Midhurst in [illegible] has a controlling influence over Malton in Yorkshire, the marquis of Ailesbury in the [illegible] of Marlborough, the earl of Powis at Ludlow, the [illegible] held at Lichfield, the earls of [illegible] southwest Lancashire, the [illegible] the counties of [illegible] English counties [illegible] and [illegible].

The radicals of course expect the opposition not only of the lords but of the landlords' party in the commons, but [illegible] next session [illegible] the lower house and [illegible] twice before [illegible] representation [illegible].

Parnell's Troubles.

Parnell has a twofold [illegible] in the autumn [illegible] induce the [illegible] to [illegible] their differences. [illegible] Van [illegible]'s paper [illegible] stump are cabled over here every week [illegible] to Parnell's embarrassment. One of these dispatches [illegible] saying that [illegible] Parnell is going to draw [illegible] from his peaceful [illegible] Irish affairs [illegible] an alliance utterly [illegible] Catholic [illegible] manner. Parnell is [illegible] anguish by his opponents and has been [illegible] him to take steps to arouse the patriots in this country. Father Sylatt, a member of the [illegible] above of the league, [illegible] last meeting [illegible] papers in New York [illegible] violence against the [illegible] probably find [illegible] in New York [illegible] missing [illegible] dynamite.

THE MORELOS DISASTER.

GROSS CARELESSNESS THE CAUSE OF THE HORROR.

A Frail Road Improperly Constructed and Badly Managed—A "Crooked" Investigation which must come to nothing.

The train passed Ma[illegible] where a bridge [illegible] speed, plunged into [illegible] were [illegible] blazing spirits and were [illegible]. The car containing [illegible] was [illegible]. A heavy flood was [illegible] many were drowned and [illegible] burned beyond recognition. The night was dark and [illegible] could be obtained. The news was [illegible] reaching the city of Mexico [illegible] President Gonzales has ordered [illegible] investigate the matter immediately. [illegible] pertained [illegible] was given [illegible] a Mexican contractor, from Mexico [illegible] $[illegible] per kilometer. The road was built entirely with [illegible] financial backing. It was [illegible] road was cheaply and [illegible] constructed and an accident was prophesied by competent engineers. Public opinion blames Manager [illegible] left the city. [illegible] It was the [illegible] line to the [illegible] subsidy. [illegible] blame [illegible] count. [illegible] been [illegible] public works [illegible] are [illegible] reported to be interested in the Morelos road [illegible] the government gave the management of the Morelos road [illegible].

It appears that the road was [illegible] by the public inspector on the day of the catastrophe. There is great indignation and the papers demand that the blame be fixed. A dispatch received to-day reports that Gov. Greener is missing. It is not known if he was on the train. Over 100 bodies have been recovered in a charred and mutilated condition. The wounded are in the hospital of San Diego at Cuautla.

Another Cause Assigned.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 29.—The government of Morelos was informed officially that the accident on the railroad was caused by an officer who apprehended desertion of the soldiers, compelling, pistol in hand, the engineer to go forward in spite of opposition which the latter made on account of the heavy rain and complete darkness. Both were saved. Among the dead are 17 women and five children.

POLITICAL REFORMERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It is well known throughout the state, that Messrs. A. Bush and J. W. Nesmith have been bitter in their denunciations of every governor and other state and United States officer who has held position since the old Salem clique was forced, by the people, to release their hold upon the public treasury. Peculation, fraud and extravagance have been the charges they have persistently reiterated against others, while holding themselves up before the people as models of honesty and economy.

Mr. Nesmith, in a letter to THE OREGONIAN, Oct. 21, 1878, referring to the old Salem clique, says: "They were the men who organized and built up the democratic party in Oregon, and who led the party on to every administration. The names of members of the clique receive honorable mention by those who applaud honest and economical government." The "organization" alluded to by Mr. Nesmith while he and Mr. Bush were in power was a very expensive luxury. They were both pretty well paid for their "organizing" and "purifying" work. These two champions of economy managed to draw the snug sum of $192,750 for "organizing" the party, and the only time they were ever known to do any "purifying" service was when they left the party in 1861.

I am prepared to submit to the inspection of any one who may be curious on this subject the official treasury statements made out in detail, showing the above enormous aggregate.

The above will be found a correct aggregate of the money drawn by these worthy advocates of reform during the terms of office they have respectively held. By comparing the figures made by Mr. Bush while a [illegible] state printer, with those made by his successors, it will be observed that he is chief of the [illegible] a steady, persistent and [illegible] drawer of funds from the public treasury. But it [illegible] forth in full [illegible] [illegible] of the government.

Let every candid reader [illegible] be satisfied. Mr. Nesmith is not behind his [illegible] Bush [illegible] $[illegible] on December [illegible], 18[illegible] [illegible] months' service [illegible] of the 40th congress [illegible] three and a half months before he was elected [illegible] had to draw the money and given it to the widow of [illegible] Wilson, [illegible] whose unexpired term he was elected, there would have been some excuse for his grab from the U. S. treasury. Let it be examined by [illegible] intelligent public, and those who have been and are still being maligned by the Bush-Nesmith ring will abide their candid judgment. Messrs. Bush and Nesmith can well afford to sit down serenely, one in his banking house and the other on his 2000 acre farm, creations of money drawn from the state and U. S. treasuries, and make their appeals for low taxes and public economy.

Yesterday we gave an outline of the articles of incorporation of the Oregon and Trans-Continental Company. In compliance with a general demand we to-day print the articles in full. [illegible] company's enterprise.

The capital stock of the company has already been subscribed in full. There has been a demand for the stock in excess of the whole amount, growing out of the fact that the enterprise is regarded as a sound one and many names of eminence and weight [illegible]. The larger part of the stock has been taken by [illegible] Winslow, Lanier & Co. [illegible] New York [illegible]

Third.—To facilitate and assist and contract for the construction, building, extension, equipment and operation of any railroad or telegraph line, or steamer line or steamship line in any of the states of Oregon, California, Nevada, or [illegible], or in the territories of Washington, Idaho, [illegible] or elsewhere, or any steamship line running from Portland, Oregon, to any other port or ports in the Pacific ocean or its tributaries, and to contract for operating [illegible] or connect or exchange traffic with any railroad [illegible] steamship or steamboat line of the corporation.

Fourth.—To subscribe for or purchase the shares, stocks or bonds of any company owning or operating any such railroad, telegraph, steamships or steamboat line as is lastly described, or of any steamship company running between ports in the Northern Pacific and China and Japan; and to guarantee or otherwise secure the payment of any such bonds and interest thereon, or stocks and dividends thereon, by pledge or mortgage of the property of this corporation or any part thereof, or otherwise.

Fifth.—To build, purchase and own or lease docks, piers, [illegible] depots, hotels, warehouses, canals, locks, flumes, ferryboats, bridges and stages [illegible] needed with or adjacent to the railroads, steamships and steamboats of this corporation, and to facilitate and assist and contract for the construction and equipment, and to construct and equip all or any of such properties.

Sixth.—To borrow money on bonds, notes, debentures, and otherwise, and to mortgage all or any of its property, real or personal, to secure the payment of any or all of the same.

Seventh.—To increase the capital stock of the corporation in manner provided and authorized by the laws of Oregon, and upon any such increase, to classify the capital stock of the corporation and attach special terms and conditions to any class or part thereof.

Eighth.—To apply for and accept any and all additional acts of congress or of the legislature of any state or territory, and generally to do all other things necessary, proper or convenient for carrying into effect the business and objects above specified.

ARTICLE IV.

The principal office of this corporation shall be at the city of Portland, state of Oregon.

ARTICLE V.

The capital stock of this corporation shall be $15,-000,000.

ARTICLE VI.

Such capital stock shall be divided into 150,000 shares of $100 each.

ARTICLE VII.

J. N. Dolph, C. H. Prescott and Paul Schulze, or any two of them, are hereby appointed [illegible] to open stock books, receive subscriptions and organize the company.

In witness whereof we have to these presents [illegible] [illegible] day of June in the year [illegible]

OREGON STATE FAIR.

Opening Day—Horses and Horse Races—Floral Garden—Notes and Comments.

As has not been uncommon in the history of Oregon state fairs, the opening day this year was not [illegible] of great activity or bustle [illegible] the work of preparation has fairly begun and is going forward [illegible]. [illegible] also upon the first day of the fair the morning opened cloudy with threats of rain, a fact which may have discouraged some from putting in an appearance who otherwise would have been on the ground. The management think there is nothing to say from which we may form any definite idea of [illegible] this year.

Appearances [illegible] this year, and the pavilion is very bare as yet though a good many chests, boxes, packages, etc., are piled around promiscuously in the building, the contents of which will in a day or two be spread on the bare walls and relieve the place of the desolate appearance which it now wears.

The Floral Garden immediately in the rear of the pavilion, laid out and conducted under the superintendency of Henry Miller, is a new feature and is quite attractive, though not so [illegible] elaborate or extensive. It consists of numerous shrubs, plants [illegible] arranged in beds and rows with intervening walks and with [illegible] at which to [illegible].

GROWTH OF THE WEST.

Robert P. Porter of Chicago, a statistician of wide reputation and special agent of the census, has prepared an article which sets forth the growth and distribution of the population of the United States during the last eight decades. It is an article which will save those who want statistics for immediate use the labor of going over old volumes and of examining fragmentary returns. Among his tables is one that illustrates in a peculiar manner the remarkable development of the western states—that is, the states west of and including the state of Ohio, and extending to the Pacific ocean. This table is hereunto appended:

	New England States.	Middle States.	Southern States.	Western States.	Total.
1790	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]		[illegible]
1800	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1810	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1820	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1830	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1840	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1850	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1860	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1870	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1880	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

The relative growth of the west and its prodigious gain could not be set forth by more significant comparison. The great western territory which in 1800 contained but a little over 50,000 people now abounds in numerous commercial and industrial centres and has a population of nearly twenty millions.

In general terms the above table shows that the New England states increased 22 per cent. in the decade ending in 1800, that the middle states increased 36 per cent., and that the southern states increased 30 per cent. At that time there was no population in the northwestern portion of the continent, from the eastern boundary line of Ohio to the Pacific coast on the west, and from the northern lakes to the Ohio river on the south. In 1810 the percentage of increase in the eastern states was 17 in the middle states 36, in the southern states 35, and in the western states 474 per cent. When the westward movement of the population began, the decennial increase of the New England, middle, and southern states was checked; and in 1820 we find the increase 12 per cent., 24 per cent. and 30 per cent., respectively, and the western states no less than 193 per cent. In 1830 the three first mentioned divisions remained about the same, and the percentage of increase dropped in the western states to 87 per cent. In the decade ending in 1840, westward emigration received an impetus possibly owing to the commercial distress in the cities of the country. While the increase in the New England states remained normal at 14 per cent. the middle and southern states increased 23 per cent. each, and the percentage in the west increased from 87 per cent. in the previous decade to 120 per cent. In 1850 the manufactories of the New England states began to attract immigration, and the increase in population for the decade ending in that year was 22 per cent. against 29 per cent. each in the middle and southern states, and only 57 per cent. in the western states and territories. In 1860 the New England states returned to their normal state of increase, 14 per cent.; the middle states showed an increase of 25 per cent., and the southern 21 per cent.; the western states and territories increased from 57 per cent. in the preceding decade to 74 per cent. for the decennial period ending in 1860.

By the civil war the growth of the population in all sections of the country was checked, but the effects were less felt in the western states than any others. The most serious check was, of course, in the southern states. But the census of 1880 shows that their rate of progress has been resumed.

NEWS ABOUT THE PORTLAND ELECTION.

When the wiseacres of pseudo journalism get down to their work they sometimes produce rather remarkable things. This powerful and influential class have been determined to make the result of the Portland city election a new plume in the cap of that faded and effete professor of stale political trickery, who signs himself "John H. Mitchell." Perhaps the most remarkable of all these deliverances is the following, which we take from the Idaho Statesman, published at Boise City:

> The city election, which came off in Portland, Oregon, on the 20th instant, was a sort of Mitchell-Williams fight. Ex-Senator and ex-Attorney General George H. Williams has always claimed his home in Oregon, where he has many friends and admirers. It has been charged that he has had his eye on the senatorship on the expiration of Senator Grover's term, and that he would come back to Oregon as a senatorial candidate. The telegraph announced his arrival about twelve days ago. Of course Senator Williams' strong opponent would be ex-Senator John H. Mitchell. Senator Williams' friends concluded to run the city election to their own interest, and then call it a Williams victory. This would hardly do for Senator Mitchell, and of course he brought out his forces, under the head of a citizens' ticket, by the nomination of Joe Simon, a republican, the Williams party having nominated Colonel D. P. Thompson, the present mayor, for re-election. The democrats seemed to favor the Williams party as the weaker of the two, in order to widen the breach. The contest is claimed to have been the closest and most exciting election ever held in the city. They polled 3684 votes—412 over the vote two years ago. Simon received 1791 votes and Thompson 1785, giving Simon, the Mitchell candidate, 6 majority. This is considered a great victory for Mitchell, inasmuch as THE OREGONIAN and some of his strongest opponents are in Portland.

The above is worth republishing in its gorgeous entirety, as a phenomenal specimen of vast and varied misinformation. Everybody who knows anything about the Portland election knows that it was not a contest between Williams and Mitchell, even in remote degree, that Judge Williams had no part whatever in it, as he is in Oregon for residence and business and not for politics; and moreover that Mitchell cut no figure whatever in the election. The utterly ludicrous parts of the above article we pass without comment. As we have said heretofore, the citizens' effort had no reference whatever to politics, while the "regular" movement, instead of being conducted by Mitchell, or in Mitchell's favor, was organized and pushed for purposes more or less directly against him. A few small "footers" of journalism remain who are unable to see any figure but Mitchell's in Oregon politics; and yet no man in this state was ever so completely shelved as he is. His position is entirely similar to that of Gorham in California. Their party is stronger without them than with them, as is abundantly proven by the fact that it can win only when they let it alone.

George H. Pendleton, the democratic oracle of Ohio, has allowed himself to be interviewed. He regrets that he has incurred the displeasure of any one because of his vote on the confirmation of Stanley Matthews, and declines to say whether or not he voted for the confirmation. He thinks that Conkling's power has departed, except in ability to injure the republican party, and that he (Conkling) "is the worst disappointed man in America over his failure to secure an immediate re-election to the senate." As to the temperance question in Ohio politics Mr. Pendleton says: "It is always safe to occupy conservative ground. There are evils resulting from the sale of intoxicating liquors that ought to be restrained. The democratic party cannot afford to appeal to any class for votes. First it should be right, and to declare in favor of a well regulated license law would be safe and democratic." This straddles the question as [illegible] and successfully as could be expected.

The Conkling faction are trying a new expedient. They have indicted Senator Sessions (anti-Conkling) on a charge of having made an assault on the legislative virtue of Representative Bradley, one of Conkling's [illegible] props. It is plain however to everybody that this charge of bribery, depending as it does solely on the testimony of the same member who complains that he was corruptly approached, is only a new effort to employ an old and worn out trick, which was first used to settle old Pomeroy in Kansas. It has lost the gloss of novelty, and every legislative [illegible] of it. Senator Sessions is represented as being a man of ability. At any rate he is not quite a fool; and the story of his offering to pay Bradley $2,000 to quit voting for Conkling, when the men whom he was himself trying to elect still lacked thirty votes, is about as attenuated as the thread on which hangs Conkling's last hope of a political future.

Ex-Secretary Schurz has contributed to the July number of the North American Review an article on the Indian question. While Mr. Schurz was at the head of the interior department he was largely instrumental in establishing the main features of a new policy of dealing with the Indians, a policy which has for its object the breaking up of their tribal relations, treating them as individuals and inducing them to take lands in severalty and cultivate it on their own account. It has now come to be regarded not only as a sound policy but as a policy that lies at the very foundation of all efforts to make anything of the Indians, that they must be isolated and individualized, that nothing can be done with them and but little for them so long as they are herded together upon the old reservation plan; and that the lesson must somehow be taught to every Indian that industry is his only resource against the final extinction of his race. No longer is there any place on the continent to which the white man has not penetrated, and no longer is it possible for the Indian to maintain himself as he once did. He must now address himself to the problems of labor, ceasing to depend on the chase on the one hand and the bounty of the government on the other. Mr. Schurz sets all this forth with his accustomed clearness of statement.

It costs the city of San Francisco the sum of $5,480,446 29 per annum to support a municipal government which every newspaper in the city condemns as inefficient and worthless. The Kalloch crowd are not noted as economizers, when they have the handling of money. Yet they can economize very nicely in theory for others to work by. Besides that large sum the city pays $1,513,558 93 state taxes under the Kearney system; a total tax of $6,174,105 22 for the city.

The June number of the West Shore, just out, is a finely illustrated one. It may be called "the British Columbia number," since its articles and illustrations are devoted chiefly to our northern neighbors. A large plate gives a splendid view of the city of Victoria, while the principal features of special interest in the city are set forth in smaller engravings. There are also views of Yale, New Westminster and Nanaimo, with articles descriptive of the general scenery and resources of the province.

Jefferson Davis's book is severely criticised by some southern newspapers. The Richmond (Va.) State says: His chronological arrangement is faulty to an extreme degree, and as a history the work is a failure. The English used is also faulty, very faulty; the style is bad, and the spirit of the whole work is personal, not impartial, and in the nature of a special pleading instead of a judicial record.

Since twine is now beginning to supersede wire for binding grain and since there is little doubt that it will ere long entirely supersede it, a new market for flax fibre will soon be created. Materials may easily be grown on our own soil for all our bagging and cordage. But it is probably too much to expect that this industry will be developed for a long time to come.

The price of steel rails is now from $56 to $60 per ton at the eastern mills, the price varying chiefly according to the time of delivery. A large sale of English steel rails is reported at $62 50, delivered at New Orleans.

It is told of "Wakem" Miller, who is said to have "made a raise" not long since, that he walked into Wall street a couple of weeks or so ago with $40,000, which he left there in exchange for experience.

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 30, 1881.

CITY.

MEETINGS ON THE FAIR GROUNDS.—The Portland Young Men's Christian Association will hold their regular annual religious meetings in their pavilion at the entrance of the fair grounds during the week of the fair. The co-operation of all Christians, friends of temperance and good order is desired and solicited. By invitation of the directors Chaplain Stubbs will take charge of the services. Volunteer workers are invited fraternally to report to him at the tent. Should the weather permit there will be services morning, afternoon and evening on Sunday next. On the 4th of July there will be a grand rally of the friends of temperance at 3 P. M., and probably in the evening. Blue ribbon clubs and other temperance organizations will please take notice.

ACCOUNTS OF I. L. L. PICNIC.—The committee on picnic of the Irish Land League of Portland, met last night for a settlement of accounts:

Total receipts..............................$775 90
Total expenses..............................289 99

Cash on hand................................$485 91

with 12 tickets still out. A vote of thanks were passed to the general public for their generous support, and to the following for cash donations: Mr. Frazer, Acker & Leihy, Mister Bros., Woodward & Magee, Freeman Bros., O'Shea Bros., Martin & Co.

RETURNED.—Mrs. Dr. B. A. Owens, well and favorably known in this city through a professional practice of some years, returned by the State of California, after an absence of three years. Two years of this time were spent in the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, and the last year was devoted to hospital practice in Europe and the eastern cities. She will at once open an office and resume practice in this city.

K. OF P. OFFICERS.—Last night Excelsior Lodge No. 1, Knights of Pythias, elected the following officers: C. C., H. D. Kay; V. C., Alfred Evans; P., — Winters; M. E., Louis Lachman; M. F. P. C., John Holmes; V. of R. and S., Chas. Abraham; M. A., John Roberts; I. G., Louis Cohen; O. G., John Flood; P. C., F. J. Henry. Installation will take place next Wednesday evening at Red Men's Hall.

NEW COUNCIL.—According to the provisions of the new charter of this city, the first meeting of the new common council will be on the first Monday in July. This will fall on the evening of July 4. We understand that it is the purpose of the council to meet at that time and adjourn at once to some other evening. The new board of trustees of East Portland will meet at the chamber this evening.

FOR THE NORTH.—The steamer California leaves at 4 o'clock this morning for the Sound and Alaskan ports, with the following passengers: For Sitka, Miss Emily Lindsley, Miss May Quigley, Mrs. Capt. P. Boles, Mrs. H. Thielson, Mrs. E. O. Hughes; for Victoria, Mrs. H. R. Gayle, Mrs. Goodfellow, Miss Goodfellow, Miss Agassiz, R. Agassiz, Rev. Dr. Jackson, Mrs. Goodhue and child.

PERFECT IN ATTENDANCE.—For the past six years Master Charles Seaquist of the High school, and Master Ezra Kingsley of the Harrison street school, have been perfect in attendance. They have not been tardy nor absent a single school day for that period. These lads ought to feel proud of such a record, and their example is worthy of emulation.

WILL NOT TOUCH HERE.—The ship P. J. Carlton, which arrived at Astoria yesterday from Hongkong, will not touch at this port at all. She brought 350 Chinese passengers and a full cargo. The Chinese passengers have all debarked at Astoria, and the vessel will in a few days proceed to San Francisco with her cargo, where she is under charter.

TRIAL TRIP.—The Oregonian Railway Company's new steamer, City of Dundee, made a trial trip yesterday forenoon, from a point on the east side of the river just above J street. The new steamer ascended as far as the foot of Ross island and returned to the foot of Jefferson street. The machinery worked in a very satisfactory manner.

DID NOT GET THROUGH.—The train which left Walla Walla Sunday evening for The Dalles, did not reach the latter place until late on Monday. Before reaching Bialock's station the locomotive got off the track on account of the large quantity of sand which had been drifted across the rails. This delayed the train for some time.

W. H. BESSE.—This vessel arrived here from Hongkong yesterday with 253 Chinese passengers and a cargo of merchandise. The W. H. Besse brought from Hongkong 386 passengers, but 133 debarked at Astoria, where they will find employment at the fisheries. This vessel is not under charter, but comes seeking.

SUDDEN ILLNESS.—John Kreetz, of East Portland, is quite sick at his residence on Fifth street. He was taken suddenly and severely ill while in Portland at 5 o'clock Tuesday evening, and was immediately conveyed to his home and medical aid summoned. At last accounts he was resting comfortably.

THE ROBBERS.—The police authorities here are quite certain that McKern and Smith, the men arrested near Butteville, Marion county, yesterday, for complicity in the Turner robbery, are the same individuals who robbed Dr. Theesing and L. Besser on the White House road Tuesday afternoon.

RECEIVED HIS COMMISSION.—George A. Steel, the new postmaster at Portland, has received his commission from Washington. Mr. George E. Cole, the retiring P. M., will turn over all the books, papers, etc., to-day, and his successor will enter upon the duties of his new position to-morrow.

CONTINUED.—The case of J. H. Sternberger, under arrest on charge making indecent assault on a woman at the American Exchange Hotel, last Sunday evening, was on trial yesterday in the police court. The examination was continued until to-day.

ELECTION.—Following are the newly elected officers of Oregon Lodge No. 65, I. O. B. B.: President, Max Bollack; vice president, M. Ball; recording secretary, Wm. Wolf; financial secretary, Ch. Friendly; treasurer, S. Mitchell; guardian, G. Wood.

NEW COLLECTOR.—Capt. J. D. Merriman, the newly appointed collector of customs at Astoria, has received his commission from the department and to-morrow will enter upon the duties of office, vice W. D. Hare, resigned.

INSANE PATIENT.—A young man named George Plomendon, who has resided for some years in Marion county, was adjudged insane a few days ago, and Tuesday was brought to the asylum by Deputy Sheriff Minto.

THE MANDAMUS CASE.—The case of Joseph Simon vs R. L. Durham, A. E. Borthwick and H. W. Davis, the canvassing board, will come up this morning at 9 o'clock, before Judge Stott.

BANKS TO BE CLOSED.—All the banks of the city will be closed during Saturday and Monday, July 2d and 4th. Merchants and business men should bear this in mind.

FOURTH ANNUAL REUNION.—The fourth annual reunion of the Portland high school will be held this (Thursday) evening at Turn Halle.

MID-WEEK MEETING.—The regular prayer and conference meeting will be held to-night at the Congregational church at 8 o'clock.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The usual lecture this evening, beginning at a quarter before 8 o'clock.

AMUSEMENTS.

This evening the Widow Bedott party will arrive here from the sound, and the first of three performances be given. A large number of seats have been reserved and a crowded house may be confidently anticipated. A Chicago exchange says: "Haverly's Widow Bedott Comedy Company opened at this popular resort last evening, with Charles B. Bishop as the talkative widow, with her antiquated sayings and amusing efforts to gain a husband, which kept a large and appreciative audience in bursts of applause and laughter. All those who enjoy a good hearty laugh should not miss going to see the widow, as she is only billed for two weeks. The widow is well supported, but as she is such an everlasting talker no one else has a chance, we will give her all the praise."

PERSONAL.

Mr. J. B. Price, for years a resident of Portland, is now living at Cheltenham, England.

Mr. T. Collinson, member of the firm of S. Lipman & Co., arrived on the last steamer, to remain with the house in this city.

A letter was received here yesterday by Mr. John Gill, from his brother J. K. Gill, who is now east. Mr. Gill was sojourning in New York at the time the letter was written.

Miss Ellen Coursen of San Francisco, was chosen by the literary committee for the Fourth of July celebration in that city, from quite a number of prominent local vocalists, to sing the Star Spangled Banner at the Grand Opera House.

DOMESTIC SEWING MACHINE,
E. F. Heroy, Agent, 49 Salmon street.

BATH GOWNS.—For excellent work you are recommended to Mrs. S. F. Matthews, 231 Second street. Who make to order and promptly.

Special Notice.

I will keep my store open until 9 o'clock, P. M., from this day until further notice. J. RODGIN, Clothing Palace.

Hip! Hip! Hurrah! Here we are again with many new and striking novelties in the way of Clothing, Just opened, from lots out of the "State." We can now boast of having a stock equal to the best on the northwest coast, and do not let this slip your memory. BECK & WALDMAN.

CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH.

Meeting of the Executive Committee last night —Firemen's Contest, Boat Race, etc.

Last night a meeting of the committee in charge of the Fourth of July celebration was held in the council chamber, Mayor D. P. Thompson in the chair. The following members were present: Geo. C. Sears, secretary; H. Y. Thompson, A. Zieber, C. T. Belcher, J. B. Knapp, R. L. Norden, A. Roberts, T. A. Jordan and W. S. Newbury.

A vote of thanks was tendered Messrs. Kellogg, Hegele, Norden and Gallick for their services in collecting funds for defraying expenses of the celebration.

A resolution was passed that no money shall be disbursed by the committee or any member thereof except by warrant drawn by the secretary and countersigned by the chairman of the committee, directed to A. Roberts, treasurer.

W. H. Creighton was present on behalf of the cricket club and on motion H. Y. Thompson was appointed a committee of one to act for the committee in arranging time and place for the game.

W. S. Newbury was appointed a committee of one to make all arrangements with the Portland light battery for firing a salute.

The military drill was fixed for July 5th, and it was decided that the same be held on the cricket and base ball grounds. Not less than 20 men must compete in each company, and there must be more than one company to compete.

W. S. Newbury was appointed a committee of one to solicit subscriptions from citizens of East Portland and Knott's ferry.

The secretary was authorized to draw warrants for the several fire companies, upon the foreman of each company certifying that the company would turn out.

The committee on amusements were allowed $300, and the committee on invitations, $25.

Adjourned till Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

FIREMEN'S CONTEST.

The race between fire companies will take place on First street, between Stark and Morrison, one hour after the parade on the Fourth. The hose carriages will be stationed on Fourth street and the engines on Second street, both to run to First. The following streets have been chosen by lot: No. Two, on Stark, No. Four on Washington, No. Five on Alder, No. Three on Morrison. The following gentlemen will act as judges: Chas. T. Bacon, Levi Knott, D. Monnastes and G. Summers. Five minutes before the contest Mr. Lindberg will give a signal on the big bell. Three minutes afterward a tap will be sounded which will be a signal for the company on Morrison street to start. In three minutes another tap will be given when the company on Alder street will start, and so on to Stark. The time will be calculated from the tap of the bell till water comes through the nozzle.

THE BOAT RACE.

Thus far only a four-oared race has been announced. The Willamette rowing club will enter two boats: the new Willamette with the following crew (Grant stroke, T. Dunbar bow, Gill No. 2, McQuarrie No. 3); and the Neptune, Palmer stroke, Stratton bow, Smith No. 2, J. Dunbar No. 3. The Portland Rowing Association will enter their paper shell Stratton stroke, Ferrar bow, Smith No. 2, — No. 3. The course will be from the foot of Stark street, one mile up the river and return.

BRIEF NOTES.

State fair has opened.

Widow Bedott to-night.

Time to bring forth your discarded dusters.

"Fun on the Bristol" is delighting Salemites.

Most time for the seaside exodus to commence.

"WHERE ART THOU?"

POINTED QUESTIONS FOR CHRISTIANS, BACKSLIDERS AND SINNERS.

Mr. Hallenbeck's Services Yesterday—The Hall again Filled with Eager, Interested Crowds.

Still the crowds gather daily and nightly at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. No matter what the attractions are elsewhere, every seat is promptly filled. Mr. Hallenbeck's severe and protracted labors are telling upon him, and his throat troubles interfere seriously with his work, but his zeal and earnestness make him forget himself, and he daily takes the platform and pours out his message in stirring sentences.

AFTERNOON MEETING.

The number in attendance is constantly increasing, yesterday showing the largest attendance since the meetings began. The power of Christ to keep believers" was eloquently presented by Mr. Hallenbeck. In the course of his remarks a large number of Christians spoke of their personal knowledge of the truth of what the leader had said: that Christ does keep those who trust in him. Another marked fact in regard to the meetings is the large number of inquirers who attend. There are numbers present every day who ask for the prayers of Christians.

EVENING MEETING.

After the usual introductory services Mr. Hallenbeck read part of the 7th chapter of Matthew, and chose as his text Genesis, 3:9—"Where art thou?" The sermon was an earnest call to three classes present: Christians, backsliders and sinkers to honestly face this old question which has come down over the ages. Christians are to be lights. Many Christian fathers are standing in the way of their children. In the home, in society, in business —God has a right to expect every Christian to let the light of his truth shine clearly. Paul says that we are "living epistles known and read of all men." Where a Christian man reads his bible once the world reads him twenty times. There should be great care that the right message should be seen by these men.

Backsliders are never happy. It is not possible that they should be. The prodigal son could not satisfy himself with swine husks. A man who has once been a Christian is never satisfied with the husks of sin. This world is a poor substitute for the bread of life.

The sermon closed with an earnest appeal to sinners to face this question, "Where art thou?" The appeal took hold of the hearts of the audience, for in response to an invitation many rose and asked Christians to pray for them. The usual inquiry meeting followed the dismissal of the congregation.

The services to-day as usual—prayer meeting at 12 o'clock, ladies' prayer meeting at 3 o'clock, and preaching service at 7:45. Mr. Hallenbeck's theme to-night is, "There is no Difference."

Mr. Hallenbeck announced last night that in all probability next Sunday night would be his last service here. We learn that it is his intention to take a trip to Puget Sound and get a much needed rest.

INDIAN TRAINING SCHOOL.

Davidson, the photographer, has recently issued some 20 photographs taken at Forest Grove. They comprise the following: the school building and grounds, various groups of boys and girls, carpenters at work, school scene, housekeeping, shoemaking, blacksmithing, and others. All are good; we may safely say the best work executed by Davidson, particularly those of the boys at work blacksmithing, etc. Those of the girls while engaged at work were executed in like excellent manner. Great surprise has been expressed by all upon examining the various groupings, mainly on account of the good behavior of the subjects, which is better than is generally observed on the part of white children. This gives the photographs a greater excellence than otherwise. Captain Wilkinson should be proud of his Indian boys and girls, and Davidson must be elated with the success he has had in procuring so many good negatives. The proceeds of the sale of these photographs will be turned into the "gift fund" of the Forest Grove Indian Training School.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

J. F. D. Wrinkle & Co., at No. 221 First street, corner of Salmon, are closing out an immense stock of spring and summer dress goods, summer shawls, cloaks, linen ulsters, and dry goods of every description. Just read their price list, found elsewhere. Goods almost given away. They keep no auction trash or damaged goods.

P. E. Beach & Co., have just received per ship Empire, direct from New York, a large assortment of varnishes. All these varnishes the firm is prepared to furnish in barrel or call lots. The varnishes are from the well known manufactory of William Tilden & Stokes. The stock was purchased before the recent advance, and the firm is enabled to offer better prices than ever before offered in this city.

CLAIMING THE FIRST "SQUINT."

COTTAGE GROVE, June 28, 1881.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Your last week issue of THE OREGONIAN has several accounts about the comet. Mr. A. O. Yates, of Crowley, thinks that he is the first who saw it—that is, at 2 o'clock on the morning of the 23d. I saw it on the evening of the 22d at about 9 o'clock. It was almost due north from where I first observed it. I called the attention of my mother at the time, as I had not seen an account of a coming comet. I think that I am really the first who noticed the comet, though it was not so bright then as Mr. Yates describes it. Respectfully yours, J. B. STEWART

NOTES FROM SCIO.

[CORRESPONDENCE.]

SCIO, June 28, 1881.

The wheat prospect is better than was anticipated.

Another new mail route is to leave Albany with this Scio.

Only about five bushels of wheat remain in the railroad warehouse.

Brick are still [illegible] of [illegible]. Work on improvement [illegible].

Trout fishing is very [illegible] at [illegible] quite lively.

The Baptists hold [illegible] meeting here [illegible]. A large attendance is expected. Ample [illegible] will be served each day.

Miss Lou Shepard [illegible] [illegible] the first of next month for the east, to attend [illegible] Boston's W[illegible] college.

Blackberries are very abundant this year. Wives and children, wives and all are [illegible] are now [illegible] the delicious fruit.

If Scio was on direct communication with [illegible] the [illegible] road [illegible] through town would add a stage to it here.

If Scio had such a hotel a country seat [illegible] would be quite a summer resort. The [illegible] very picturesque, the roads to [illegible] and hunting [illegible] reasonable. [illegible] the healthfulness of the place.

From Mr. B. Whitlow, county assessor for Linn, it is learned that the report that was going the [illegible] round to the [illegible] people are not so much in debt as was supposed. The Scio company, instead of having [illegible] has no more than $30,000. If all the wheat could be sold at 85 cents, people would be clear of debt.

The phenomena last week of circles around the sun excited much attention. They were observed very generally in Albany. About 9 o'clock A. M. the atmosphere, which was very clear, looked hazy. Three rings appeared, one very large, one of a white color extending across half the heavens, the other two were of a [illegible] color, which seemed contained in the large one, forming almost a [illegible] the sun being the center of one only. At [illegible] o'clock the circles disappeared.

We confine ourselves strictly to the truth in advertising our business. We have the only coupes in town. Carriages and coupes may be ordered any time, day or night. ACKER & LEIHY, City Stables.

If you want to buy, sell, or borrow money at low rates, go to W. O'Shea, pawnbroker, 26 Washington street, near First. His motto is, quick sales, small profits and fair dealings to all.

HISTORY OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

[New York Herald.]

Hereafter no one will be allowed to ask vainly what woman has done for the political enfranchisement of her sex. Three of the best known advocates of woman suffrage—Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Miss Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Matilda Joslyn Gage—have prepared a history of the movement, and as the first volume, just published, contains nearly nine hundred large octavo pages the editors have space sufficient to a fair exhibit of any cause, no matter how great, that the world ever knew. The date selected for the beginning of the history is 1848, that being the year in which the first woman's rights convention was held, and the first volume ends with the record of 1861. As the authors pronounce the woman suffrage movement "The most momentous reform that has yet been launched on the world—the first organized protest against the injustice that has brooded over the character and destiny of one-half the human race," and as the authors have themselves been active and prominent at the launching and also in protesting, it quite naturally follows that they write nothing in the prosy style peculiar to ponderous histories. If any of the speeches, letters or proceedings had any spice in them the volume reproduces them, and whenever a pronounced flavor is lacking the authors show themselves entirely competent to supply it.

Most women to whom the title of this book is attractive will devote themselves to the chapters recounting the wrongs of the sex which "advanced" women would not thank us to call the gentler. Men, however, at whom, by implication, this big octavo is hurled, will be most interested by the authors' introduction. This, in the space of any ordinary sermon or lecture, states the position of the advocates of woman suffrage, and also sets up the anti-suffrage arguments so as to knock them down. ~~The universal degradation~~ of woman in all nations and all periods is admitted, and the condition of woman is attributed to slavery. Woman's industry, patience and unselfishness are traced to "the slavish instinct of an oppressed class." Women themselves, and particularly the noblest of the sex, will probably resent this proposition as indignantly as men will do, and many of them will also deny the assertion that "she has been bought and sold, caressed and crucified at the will and pleasure of her master." The leaders of the movement are given a handsome "send-off" by being declared to be "women of superior mental and physical organization, of good social standing and education, remarkable alike for their domestic virtues, knowledge of public affairs and rare executive ability; good speakers and writers, inspiring and conducting the genuine reforms of the day everywhere exerting themselves to promote the best interests of society;" yet it is said that "they have been uniformly ridiculed, misrepresented and denounced in public and private by all classes of society." The objections to their work are attributed to various causes, one of these, and apparently the darling of the lot, being that "the majority of the male sex cannot yet tolerate the idea of living with an equal;" as these words were written by John Stuart Mill, the women are not to be blamed for quoting them. A man is recognized as being sometimes necessary to a woman as a protector, but, on the other hand, other men are sometimes necessary to protect her against the first. Men are said to be uniformly more attentive to women who least need their care than to any other class. The isolated household is denounced as responsible for a large share of woman's ignorance and degradation, and a mind always in contact with children and servants is said to be necessarily dwarfed in its proportions. Wifehood and motherhood are classified among mere incidental relations. Conjugal love is placed, in the rank of sentiments, above love of offspring, because the latter calls out "only the negative virtues that belong to apathetic classes." This will be news to the millions upon millions of men who have always believed that their own mothers, in the exercise of their maternal duties, displayed higher intellectual and spiritual qualities than their grown up sons have ever seen in men. It will also puzzle the men who have attributed the greatness of Washington, Lincoln, Augustine and many other famous men to motherly influence. Still, if women say that mother's love calls out only the negative virtues of apathetic classes it must be so. It is rightly claimed that political equality cannot rouse antagonism between the sexes, for the very good reason that there is no harmony to disturb. Many silly objections to woman suffrage are thoroughly disposed of, and it is only fair to hope that others, more important, that are not noted, are being reserved for treatment in the succeeding volume, for in an age in which no woman need be less than her husband's equal, unless she is ignorant, indolent or vicious, the condition of married life a generation or two ago are not those upon which a movement for a change can be made successful.

An interesting feature of the volume is the portraits—of which there are about a dozen—from steel, of ladies whose names have been familiar during the course of the woman suffrage agitation.

TRIAL BY JURY.

[John C. Dodge in July Atlantic.]

Trial by jury proves the existence of a free government; it is the exercise by the people of one branch of supreme power. When we say it founds or upholds it, we put the effect for the cause. But suppose its value for the conservation of liberty in the past were admitted, it does not follow that it is needed now for the like purpose. Officials are powerless beyond constitutional limits. Judges by the tenure of office are beyond the influence of executive power, and generally of the ballot-box. The end now to be sought is that the law, as the expressed will of the people, should be everywhere and always supreme and uniform in its administration.

And so we come to this vital question: Is justice according to fixed rules of law more likely to be attained by our present system, or by one in which both fact and law are settled by the court without the intervention of a jury?

In cases in which we may assume that jurors would have no bias, it is obvious that they are greatly liable to error from the want of proper qualifications for the work they are to do. It was found in the beginning that the world's work could not be done without special preparation for special duties. Our neighbor may be a great man, but we do not call upon him to set a broken limb unless he has had the training of a surgeon. Much as we may esteem our physician, we do not ask his advice when a claim is set up to the estate we inherited and supposed our own. We never go to our shoemaker for a coat, nor to our tailor for boots. In our late war, we sometimes, when smarting under defeat, talked wildly about military genius and West Point machines; but in the end the value of military education was splendidly vindicated, while the civilians, who early in the war, by political influence or otherwise, obtained independent commands in the army, for the most part failed miserably, involving the country in vast loss and suffering. The average juryman is unaccustomed to continuous thought. He has never learned by practice to weigh and compare evidence, nor to judge of the truthfulness of witnesses. In protracted trials it is impossible for him to carry the testimony in his memory, or to aid his memory effectively by notes. At the close of the testimony the court instructs him in the law applicable to the case, and then it becomes his duty to make up his verdict by applying as best he may legal principles often imperfectly understood to testimony imperfectly remembered. We should not set a man to cultivate a farm or make a shoe without practical acquaintance with his work. We should expect nothing from him but failure, if his preparation had been only a lecture or a course of lectures. And yet we set jurors to the performance of the most responsible and difficult of all duties, with such preparation and aid only as they can receive from the arguments of the lawyers and the charge of the court.

Again, the juryman is impressed into the service. Often he brings with him the cares of the business from which he was taken; and if anxiety about the harvesting, the notes that must be paid before the banks close, or the conduct of the boy who thinks "epsom salts means oxalic acid" distracts his attention, he will console himself by the reflection that his responsibility is shared by eleven others.

On the other hand, the judge brings to the work a mind disciplined by years of study, followed by years of study and practice. His knowledge of law enables him to see what facts are to be proved, and on which of the parties rests the burden of proving them, and so, as each witness delivers his testimony, to appreciate its probative value. Practice has taught him to read witnesses. For him, not words only, but the manner, the tone, the gesture, the countenance have force and meaning. He is not likely to be misled. He has opportunity to take full notes, if need be, and afterwards to revise and compare the statements of witnesses. The duties of his office are his work. His attention is not distracted by outside cares.

So much for the relative capacity of judge and jury to administer justice.

Ye fair ones who so gracefully preside at your husbands' hospitable boards should furnish his guests with Hub Punch, which eclipses in flavor all punches hastily made. Mix it with either line or hot water. Sold by grocers, wine merchants and druggists. Trade supplied by Richards & Harrison, agents for the Pacific coast, San Francisco.

A STARTLING ROMANCE.

[Chicago Tribune.

"Has Myrtle come home?"

The speaker was a richly dressed woman of perhaps forty summers, although it might have been possible to have added an autumn and perhaps a couple of late springs to the account that time, that faithful but relentless chronicler of the world's doings, its lights and shades, its gala days and anniversaries, had slowly but surely set opposite her name on the closely written pages of that book which no man has read.

The person to whom she spoke—a delicately formed girl, with deep, hazel eyes and flaxen hair, that hung between her faultlessly-moulded, but not too fat shoulders in a simple braid, looking not unlike a new rope tug of the kind used on a horse car—stood on the veranda of a handsome villa in the South of England, tapping gently with a croquet mallet which she held in her hand, a tiny foot that peeped out beneath the fleecy folds of her peignoir dress.

Suddenly she started slightly, and a look of pain passed over the delicately chiseled features of her perfect face.

She had hit her corn.

This corn was the only sad chord in the otherwise perfect symphony of Ethelberta De Courcey's life. Often, when gliding dreamily through the measures of a soft, sensuous waltz, that set all her senses pulsating in harmony to the music, her head resting trustfully on the shoulder of Percy Montrose, her affianced, had she been suddenly called back from the realms of the rose-tinted meditation by some one stepping on her corn.

Sometimes, in the desolate moments that followed one of these painful society events, she would almost sob out her grief to the world, and often in the still watches of the night would come to her the thought that even a bunion would have been better.

Although of a timid, shrinking nature, and possessed of a reserve that insurance agents might envy, Ethelberta had an iron will—copper fastened and clinched on both sides, and a proud spirit that could not brook the slightest affront. In point of spirit and reserve no girl among the proud aristocracy of haughty Albion was better fixed, and don't you forget it.

Once, when an elder sister had in a moment of passion charged her with eating slate-pencils to improve her complexion, Ethelberta had only looked at her with an expression of withered scorn, and said calmly, "I shall never enter into conversation with you again."

The sister wilted like a fragile flower.

Percy Montrose was the only man she had ever loved. He was a handsome, manly looking fellow of twenty-seven, and came of an ancient Saxon family that got a start in life by stealing evergreen trees in Norway about Christmas time and shipping them to England. Ethelberta did not know this.

The one thought of her life was that she loved Percy with a wild, passionate love, that was almost wicked in its intensity. He was in her thoughts by day and dreams by night. She had told him of her love freely and fully. Often, when sitting on his trusty right knee in the parlor of her father's house, her head resting with perfect confidence just below his e avicle and above his right lung, had she murmured softly to him that she lived only for his love, and that without the oasis of his affection life would be a dreary desert upon which the sun beat pitilessly down.

It is not every young man who can be an oasis all by himself, and Percy naturally felt pretty corky about the fact.

* * * * * * * * *

Shortly after Ethelberta's mother had gone over to town and left her daughter standing on the porch, alone, with her thoughts and corn, Percy Montrose came sauntering up the graveled walk that wandered gracefully through the front yard until it reached the sidewalk. The girl greeted him with effusion and a kiss. He took both.

In a little while they walked together to the croquet lawn, and began to play.

Both were experts at the game, and neither could gain an advantage. Finally Ethelberta's ball was in a favorable position. With her dainty foot upon the ball and mallet upraised, she was the picture of beauty and grace. Should she make the shot the game would be over. Just as the mallet was descending with a graceful sweep, Percy's voice was heard.

"Your garter has come down," he said.

The mallet fell with crushing force. There was a wild whoop of anguish, and Ethelberta fluttered towards the house on one leg like a wounded bird. She had hit the corn, and never spoke to Percy again.

"Did Myrtle come home?" some may ask who remember the opening sentence of this story.

I should smile. She not only came home, but she played out the game with Percy, and subsequently married him.

Lucky Horse Prophet.

London, it seems, is the happy possessor of a prophet who, through unusual good luck or shrewdness, has rightly predicted the result of the Derby for several years. He is thus described by the London correspondent of the Philadelphia Telegraph:

In St. James street, Piccadilly, there is a fashionable saddler's shop owned by Mr. Samuel Merry, who, I believe, is also a trainer. For the last five years Merry has hung in his window on the morning of the Derby day the colors of the winning horse hours before the race has been run. This year Mr. Merry was right as usual, and the cherry and black which Iroquois carried to victory were displayed in his window by 9 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Merry has come to be regarded as a prophet of the first water, and many men wait religiously until they see Merry's colors before laying or taking odds upon the great event.

Prof. Proctor says that in 17,000,000 years more all the water will have disappeared from the face of the earth. Kentucky people should not be alarmed. Prof. Proctor said nothing about whisky.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

San Francisco, June 29.

Wheat—The market is steady at full prices. There is a fair inquiry, but there were few sales reported. Among the sales this forenoon were 150 tons fair California shipping, $1 33¾. Fair California milling sold to-day at $1 37½. There is no change to note in quotations.

Oats—The demand is a little better, but prices favor buyers. Sales yesterday 500 sks Oregon common feed at $1 50; 200 sks Humboldt, surprise, sold to-day at $1 80, but this quotation is calculated to mislead as very little comes up to this standard; quote as before.

Flour—There is more inquiry from buyers, but the market is unchanged.

Hides—Dry, usual selection; dry kip and calf, 19½@20c.

Salmon—Columbia river: it is reported that a strong effort is being made to break the market prices. The market is unfavorably affected by reports of a heavy run. We quote at $1 25@1 27½ on the river.

Wool—The market is not quite so firm; eastern buyers are drawing out of the market; the demand is mostly local for Oregon; buyers refuse to pay extreme prices; quote eastern Oregon 24@27½c; Oregon valley, 24@31c.

NEW YORK FREIGHT MARKET.

New York, June 29.—The freight market is inactive with no particular feature further than that rates are firmly on account of the scarcity of ships and the high rates at which they are held by owners who are demanding figures that are yet quite above current rates of freight. The W. R. Grace is well along in loading and will probably get away this week. The E. P. Cheney is also a 'vessel but is not being pushed, as there is no vessel to follow her. The bark Protens, six tons, has been chartered for a cargo of coal from this port at $6 50 per ton. The steamer City of Para has taken the berth of the Aeapuleo, and will sail July 23. Much interest is manifested in the presence here of the Central Pacific officials. It is now said that they are here for the purpose of fixing the arrangement with the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road in connection with the Southern Pacific, also to open a joint agency for the Central and Southern roads in this city. An name of the Union Pacific officials are here it is believed that there is some color to the above. It is known, however, that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road has a pooling arrangement with the Union Pacific whereby they receive 5½ per cent of the earnings for freight carried by the U. P., yet do not carry a pound of through freight. This arrangement can only be canceled at 90 days' notice.

Markets are quiet.

Wheat—Weak, dull; shippers have but few orders and ones the better in other markets.

Pork—Neglected.

Lard—More active, 5c higher.

Rio coffee—Unchanged.

Refined sugars—Irregular, tendency to weakness.
